Constitutional Offices

The 1987 Constitution of the Philippines provides for the creation of Constitutional Offices that are independent and autonomous, and whose mandates and functions are defined by the Constitution itself.

These are the following:

- Civil Service Commission (CSC) — the central personnel agency of the government;
- Commission on Elections (COMELEC) — tasked to enforce and administer all laws and regulations relative to the conduct of elections, plebiscites, initiatives, referenda, and recall; and
- Commission on Audit (COA) — whose primary duty is to examine, audit, and settle all accounts pertaining to the revenue and receipts of, and expenditures or uses of funds and property owned or held in trust by the Government or any of its subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities.

The following are also considered constitutionally mandated bodies:

- Commission on Human Rights (CHR), with the primary function of investigating all forms of human rights violations involving civil and political rights; and
- Office of the Ombudsman, which has the power to investigate on its own or upon complaint, any act or omission of any public official, employee, office, or agency deemed to be illegal, unjust, improper, or inefficient.

GOCCs and SUCs

GOCCs

Government-owned and/or -controlled corporations (GOCCs), as defined by Presidential Decree No. 2029 (February 4, 1986) and Memorandum Order No. 64 (August 16, 1993), are agencies organized as stock or non-stock corporations. They are vested with functions relating to public needs—whether governmental or proprietary in nature—and are owned by the Government of the Philippines, either directly or through its instrumentalities. These entities may engage in commercial or non-commercial activities and can be wholly government-owned or, in the case of stock corporations, majority-owned by the government through direct or indirect shareholding. Some GOCCs are created by special laws and operate under their own charters, which define their governance structure and responsibilities.

By virtue of R.A. No. 10149 (GOCC Governance Act of 2011), GOCCs, except for the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas, state universities and colleges, cooperatives, local water districts, economic zone authorities, and research institutions, are monitored by the Governance Commission for GOCCs (GCG). The GCG serves as the central advisory and oversight body to determine the relevance and evaluate the performance of these corporations. It also has the authority to ascertain whether or not they should be reorganized, merged, streamlined, abolished, or privatized.

SUCs

State universities and colleges (SUCs) are public higher education institutions that have been created or organized through an act of Congress.

For Academic Year 2025–2026, the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) lists a total of 557 SUCs, with 444 satellite campuses.

Legislative Branch

As provided for by the Constitution, the Congress of the Philippines is the bicameral legislative body of the Philippine Government which has the power to enact laws, including the General Appropriations Act. In addition to its legislative mandate, the Congress also performs functions such as the confirmation of Presidential appointments, impeachment, declaration of the existence of a state of war, and concurrence or confirmation of the amnesty granted by the President.

The Congress is divided into two chambers: the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The Senate consists of 24 duly elected Senators, 12 of whom are replaced or re-elected every three (3) years to ensure continuity of policies, as well as the availability of experienced members who can help and train newcomers in the discharge of duties.

The House of Representatives of the 20th Congress is composed of 254 Geographical District Representatives and 63 Sectoral Representatives. The Sectoral Representatives constitute about 20 percent of the total number of the Members of the House. Each Representative serves for a term of three (3) years and can be re-elected for two (2) additional consecutive terms.

Judicial Branch

ʻBáhay na bató
ʻA derivation of the traditional ʻBahay-kúbo made of stone developed from 1563 to 1898

Judicial Branch

The Constitution vests judicial power in the Supreme Court and in such lower courts as may be established by law.

At present, these lower courts are the Court of Appeals, Trial Courts (Regional, Metropolitan, Municipal and Municipal Circuit Trial Courts), Special Courts (Sandiganbayan and Court of Tax Appeals), and Shari'a Courts (Shari'a District and Circuit Courts). The Supreme Court exercises administrative supervision over all courts and their personnel.

As provided for by the Constitution, judicial power includes the duty of the courts of justice to settle actual controversies involving legally demandable and enforceable rights, and to determine whether or not there has been a grave abuse of discretion amounting to lack or excess of jurisdiction on the part of any branch or instrumentality of the Government.

Local Government Units

Torogan
A traditional Maranao residence of a Sultan or Datu with carved wooden beam called panolong

Local Government Units

Local Government Units (LGUs) serve as partners of the National Government in advancing the country's development agenda. They are both political and corporate bodies, endowed with powers to manage local affairs and promote the welfare of the people within their respective territorial jurisdictions. The Philippines has 82 provinces, 149 cities, 1,493 municipalities, and 42,011 barangays.*

The heads of LGUs are elected by their constituents and, except for barangay officials, serve for a term of three (3) years. They may be re-elected for two (2) additional consecutive terms.

Diplomatic Offices
and International Organizations

Diplomatic Offices

The Philippine government hosts 203 diplomatic and consular missions. Most embassies are in Metro Manila, where they carry out a full range of diplomatic functions, including fostering commercial, economic, cultural, and scientific relations between the Philippines and their respective home countries. They also provide essential services such as issuing passports, travel documents, and visas.

Several consular missions operate outside Metro Manila, primarily in key cities across the archipelago, to better serve their citizens and assist Filipinos.

Diplomatic representation in the country includes both resident and non-resident missions. Resident missions maintain embassies or chanceries in the Philippines, with their heads of mission based locally. Non-resident missions, on the other hand, are accredited to the Philippines but operate from outside the country.

The premier diplomatic mission in the Philippines is that of the Holy See, the Apostolic Nunciature. Its head, the Apostolic Nuncio, is by tradition the Dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

International Organizations

International organizations with established offices in the Philippines perform various functions and focus on pertinent issues aligned with their mandates. These include information and monitoring of global trends, delivery of services such as health, social action, and humanitarian aid, providing platforms for economic and political discourse, and settling of disputes. While most of these organizations have their primary headquarters in Metro Manila, several of them operate regional offices to provide better access for stakeholders and clients.
